A COLLABORATIVE APPROACH

WHAT IS VITAL SIGNS?

Vital Signs provides a meaningful, high-level snapshot of strengths and challenges in Guelph and Wellington County. Vital Signs is an invitation to engage in important community conversations. What are some of our strengths and weaknesses? How do we position ourselves for the future? How do we ensure everyone in our community has equal opportunity to be happy, to be healthy and to thrive?

The Vital Signs project was a collaborative partnership between The Guelph Community Foundation, Toward Common Ground, and The Community Engaged Scholarship Institute at The University of Guelph.

LET THE CONVERSATIONS BEGIN!

Toward Common Ground

We are pleased to present Vital Signs 2017/18: A snapshot into life in Guelph and Wellington County

About Vital Signs

When The Guelph Community Foundation was born in 2000, so too was the vision for its enduring legacy. Growing endowed funds create a perpetual stream of income to support the community forever. Research helps guide our understanding of the needs and the strengths in our community. And, leadership helps forge new partnerships and find new opportunities.

This Vital Signs report is such a partnership. In collaboration with Toward Common Ground – a partnership of 13 local social and health service organizations and the University of Guelph’s Community Engaged Scholarship Institute (CESI), Vital Signs provides a meaningful, high-level snapshot of strengths and challenges in Guelph and Wellington County. Toward Common Ground centralizes data and information about our community. They also bring people together to address local gaps and needs related to social and health well being.

Most importantly, Vital Signs is an invitation to engage in important community conversations across Guelph and Wellington County. For example, over the next year, the City of Guelph will use the Vital Signs report as baseline community research and a conversation prompt as it collaborates with partners and citizens to develop a Community Plan (more details on page 24).

What are some of our strengths and challenges?

We are fortunate to live in this extraordinary part of the country, and of the world. Our local economy is diverse, median incomes are high, and unemployment is often the lowest in the country. The environment is beautiful and healthy. Our communities are safe. People are active and many feel like they belong.

At the same time, many people face barriers that prevent them from fully participating in everything our community has to offer. Thousands of people struggle with housing affordability. Others face mental health or mobility issues. Some of our teens’ literacy scores are declining; and one in three kindergarten students is vulnerable in at least one aspect of their early development.

Local impact for global change

In 2016, The United Nations launched its Sustainable Development Goals, representing a global vision for a thriving and sustainable planet. We have the opportunity to consider our challenges and strengths within a global context; and to consider how our efforts to make Guelph and Wellington a thriving and sustainable community are part of a global movement for a better world (more details on page 22).

How to use this report

We invite you to dig into this report. Share it. Talk about what it really means. Explore more data in the Toward Common Ground portal. Think about what’s most pressing and what we can do about it. Find your passion and join or support the many local organizations and programs that are addressing these and other needs.

Vital Signs pushes our community to ask “what?” “so what?” and “now what?” How do we position ourselves for the future? How do we ensure everyone in our community has an equal opportunity to be happy, to be healthy and to thrive? Where do we want Guelph and Wellington County to be in five, ten and twenty years?

We hope Vital Signs gives you a new perspective. We hope it surprises you. We hope you’ll talk to us about how you can make a difference.

VITAL SIGNS DATA

Data for Vital Signs comes from primary research sources with support from Toward Common Ground (TCG), the University of Guelph's Community Engaged Scholarship Institute, Community Foundations of Canada and The Guelph Community Foundation. Wherever possible, data specific to Guelph and Wellington County are presented separately.

Data Sources

Information has been drawn from a number of sources, including Statistics Canada (Census, Labour Force Survey, Canadian Community Health Survey), Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation (CMHC), Wellington-Dufferin-Guelph Public Health, Education Quality and Accountability Ontario (EQAO) and other local, provincial and national sources.

Limitations

Data about Guelph and Wellington are available within different geographic boundaries. In some cases, datasets are released only at the CMA (Census Metropolitan Area) or CA (Census Agglomeration) levels. The Guelph CMA is made up of Guelph-Eramosa, Puslinch and City of Guelph. Centre Wellington is classified as a CA.

In other cases, data is available only for the City of Guelph and not Wellington County. And at times, we can't separate Guelph from Wellington. We've tried our best to present the most relevant data and the geography that makes the most sense but we were limited by what was available to us. Similarly, we are missing data about certain issues and populations. For instance, we have very little about people who identify as indigenous and nothing about our LGBTQ2+ community. We are aware of these (and many other) data gaps and have done our best to present a fulsome snapshot of our community with the information available to us.

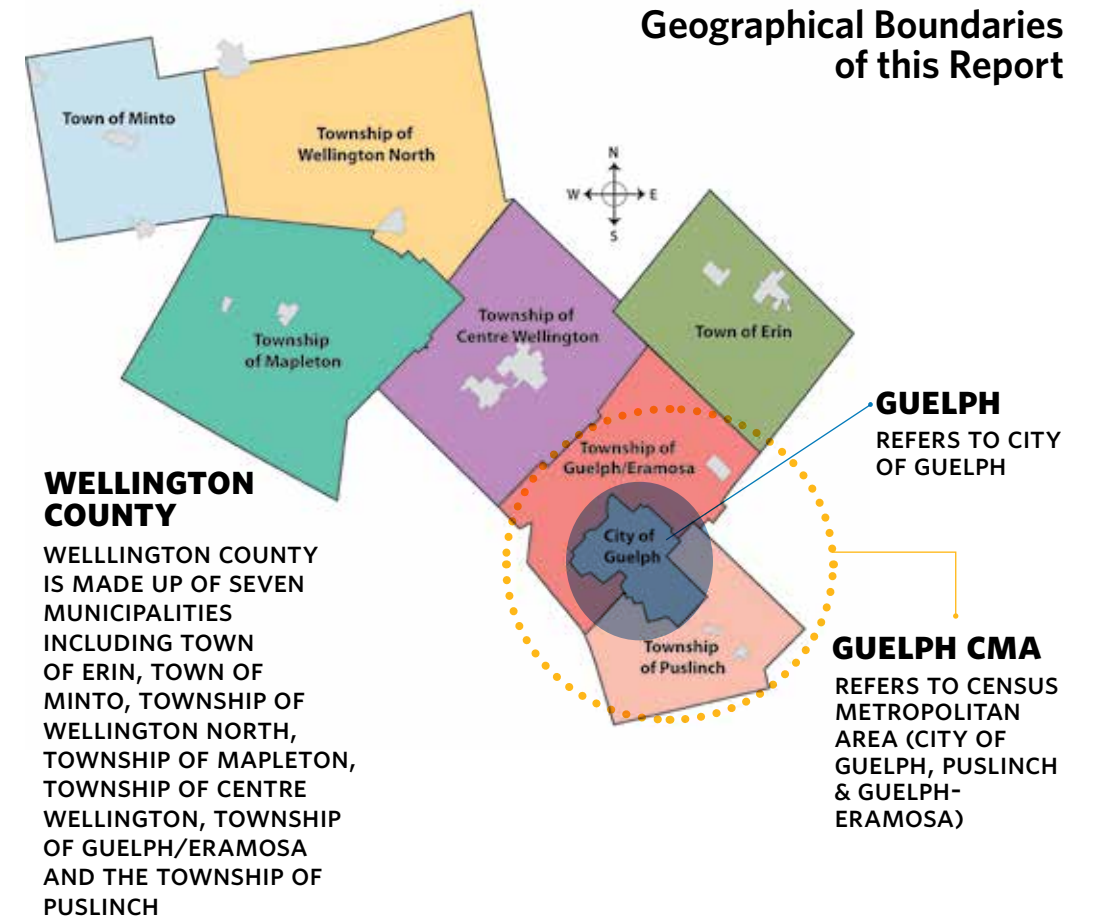

Conversations and Resources

If you feel strongly about a topic that needs more profile, let's talk. We have outlined some conversation-starting questions on page 25 of this report that you may find helpful. We welcome your ideas about Vital Signs, about collaboration and about where we go from here.

There are many resources in our community, including the University of Guelph, Wellington Dufferin Guelph's Report Cards on the Well-Being of Children and Toward Common Ground that may already have answers or can help you find them. For information about Centre-Wellington specifically, read our sister foundation's Vital Signs at cwcfoundation.ca/vitalsigns

SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT GOALS

INTERNATIONAL FRAMEWORK, LOCAL RESPONSIBILITY

The United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) were launched in 2015 after three years of negotiations between 193 countries. They represent the world's collective vision for a thriving and sustainable planet. The 15 year plan includes 17 goals and 169 accompanying targets, with a completion goal of 2030.

The SDGs are universal and connect cities and towns all across the world. For Guelph and Wellington County, they help us connect our efforts locally to create change as part of a big picture. In particular, SDG 11 is aimed at achieving sustainable communities.

The Global Goals recognize that ending poverty and ensuring global prosperity must go hand-in-hand with strategies that build sustainable communities. To reach these goals, community foundations, and philanthropy more broadly, have an important role to play alongside government, civil society and the private sector.

Through Vital Signs and other philanthropic initiatives, we have an opportunity to connect what is happening in our communities to a global agenda for action. The grassroots approach of Vital Signs to collect data, spark conversations and inspire civic engagement offers an opportunity to understand well being trends in our community in the context of global well being goals.

Nationally, Statistics Canada will begin to track and align their data with SDGs in 2018.

For more information on the Global Goals for Sustainable Development visit sustainabledevelopment.un.org

“Foundations who view the goals as essential and urgent calls to action for every sector, will have a clear way of connecting their own local efforts to broader humanitarian goals.”

How do we build on our strengths, help those who are struggling and position ourselves to be a thriving community in the future?

CONVERSATION STARTERS

Education

- Are we a community that supports lifelong learning?
- How do we ensure everyone - including people who are vulnerable - have access to education?
- How do we ensure children are in nurturing environments during their early years to support their learning, positive behaviour, physical and mental health?
- What role does education play to address the coming changes in the economy?

Health

- What's behind the decline in self-rated mental health in Guelph and higher levels of positive self-rated mental health in Wellington County?
- What do those of us with limited mobility need to fully participate in our community?
- What makes it easier for people to have a healthy lifestyle?
- How do we remove barriers to the social determinants of health?

Community Vitality

- How do we make everyone feel like they belong and matter?
- What populations are invisible in our community?
- What needs to happen for more people to participate in our democracy?
- How do we come together as a community to ensure that everyone is meaningfully included and has what they need to thrive?

- How does language diversity effect our community?
- How do we meet the needs of people who are aging in our community?
- What is at the root of the increase in non-violent crime in our city?
- How do we ensure decisions about our community are informed by diverse voices and experiences?

Environment

- How can we reduce waste?
- Why does active transportation decline in high school?
- What would entice local commuters to embrace public transit?
- What works for green transportation in rural communities?

Leisure, Culture & Recreation

- Do we place enough importance on the human, social and economic value of leisure, culture and recreation?
- How do we increase arts, culture and recreation opportunities?
- How do we ensure everyone in the community can benefit from them?
- How do we make sure we have leisure, culture and recreational activities that engage young people?

50. New analysis of the 2015 Angus Reid Institute's National Survey on Citizen Engagement and Attitudes. Data Note: Data compared 227 out of 508 (45%) participants who rated art/culture/leisure as "excellent" reported "very strong" belonging in their city/town. Conversely, 21 out of 131 (16%) participants who rated art/culture/leisure as "poor" (i.e., a 1-3 on the rating scale) reported "very strong" belonging in their city/town. Therefore, people who rate arts, culture and leisure as being excellent in their community are 2.8 times more likely to have a very strong sense of belonging to their city or town.
