Do you wish your family members got along better and that everyone had each other's backs? We'll look at some of the reasons behind conflicts within the family, whether they're between parents, siblings or parents and children. Then we'll focus on resolving and reducing them by building positive relationships skills, such as communication, empathy, and teambuilding. You'll leave with strategies for improving your skills—and encouraging family members to do the same—to strengthen family bonds and create a happier, more peaceful home.
